Supreme Court Rejects Review Of Photo Ban

News Group Seeks New Way To Get Case Before Court

WASHINGTON (UP) — The U. S. Supreme Court has refused to review the cases of seven Pennsylvania newspapermen convicted for violating a ban on the taking of pictures in a courthouse during a trial.

The court's action Monday was in the form of a brief order with no opinion.

The test case arose at Greensburg where seven executives and employes of the Greensburg Daily Tribune and Morning Review and the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette were convicted of contempt for photographing a defendant in a murder trial in Westmoreland County Court.

The prisoner was John Wesley Wable, known as the "phantom killer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike." He was tried before Judge Edward G. Bauer and since has been executed.

The newsmen were fined and sentenced to five days in jail for violating the picture-taking ban. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court upheld their convictions but wiped out the jail terms.

Case not Closed

The action of the U.S. Supreme Court in letting the state Supreme Court ruling stand did not close the case.

David W. Mack, editor and publisher of the Greensburg newspapers, said the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers Assn. and the newspapers which appealed the state Supreme Court's decision "will seek a new way to get the issue before the U.S. Supreme Court."

"This will be done by taking the case to the federal district court in Pittsburgh," he said. "This is the first step to be taken in a new effort to get the case before the U.S. Supreme Court for action."

Mack said he was "disappointed" the nation's highest court refused to review the test case.

Very Rev. Henry Hanse

Father Hanse Named Dean of District Churches

The Very Rev. Henry F. Hanse, of St. Sebastian R. C. Church, Belle Vernon, has been named dean of Western Westmoreland County R. C. Churches by Bishop Hugh L. Lamb, of Greensburg.

His appointment was announced along with the appointment of other deans, pro-synodal judges, pastors and assistants.

Father Hanse came to St. Sebastian in July, 1956 from his pastorate at St. Mary Church in Freeport to succeed the late Very Rev. Francis L. Martin, who died in April.

Father Hanse was ordained at St. Vincent college 33 years ago and served an assistancy in Carrick until 1940. From 1940 to 1946 he served as chaplain at Pittsburgh Hospital and then went to Freeport in 1946. He is a native of Mt. Pleasant.

Clark Favorite of Mrs. Roosevelt

NEW YORK (UP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today named five Democrats she would be happy to see run for president in 1960. In answer to a question in her regular McCall's Magazine column, the former First Lady said there were also "many others."

The men she named were: Chester Bowles, former governor of Connecticut, OPA administrator and ambassador to India; Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon; Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan; Sen. Joseph Clark of Pennsylvania, and Gov. Edmund Muskie of Maine.

Small Donora Fire

Donora firemen were called when dense smoke poured from a furnace at 117 Allen avenue about 9.50 this morning. There was no damage.

Silent Violin For Practice

WASHINGTON (UP) — Good news for neighbors of kids learning to play the violin:

A humanitarian named Joseph Carcione has invented an all but silent one. Moreover, he is willing to share his secret with the nerve-wracked millions who live within earshot of budding virtuosos.

Carcione, a 23-year-old violinist with the National Symphony Orchestra, explained the way to silence a violin is to wash the hair of the bow and use it without resin.

"The sound only travels about a foot and a half then," he said.

Carcione said he invented the silent violin so he could live in peace with his fellow men—particularly the ones next door.

"I can hear it," his wife said.

Ike, Mollet Meet

Rebuild Strained Relations

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower and French Premier Guy Mollet got down to work today on rebuilding strained Franco-American relations.

Mr. Eisenhower and Mollet conferred in the President's office at the White House shortly after another visiting French official, Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, began conferences with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Mollet arrived at the President's office accompanied by White House aide Bernard Shanley. Mr. Eisenhower, who had just completed his weekly meeting with Republican congressional leaders, got up from his desk and gave the French leader a warm handshake.

The two then stepped outside the President's office to allow photographers to take their pictures on a porch overlooking the White House rose garden.

Reporters noted that Mr. Eisenhower was coughing noticeably while awaiting Mollet's arrival. The President has been bothered by a lingering cough he picked up during his second inauguration.

Today's talks were expected to last nearly two hours.

Mollet pledged on his arrival Monday that "we are going to put our hearts, our minds and our full strength to achieving the peaceful and just purposes that are common to our two republics."

Suez Invasion Harmful

Relations between the United States and France hit a postwar low last fall when France and Britain invaded Egypt without first conferring with this government. The invasion strained badly the formerly close ties among the "Big Three" western allies.

Only recently, after the British-French withdrawal from Egypt, did Mr Eisenhower agree to meet with Mollet and the new British prime minister, Harold Macmillan. The President will confer with Macmillan in a separate meeting in British Bermuda March 21-24.

"The purpose of these two meetings is to get Big Three confidence back on the tracks," one official said.

Despite efforts to restore former good relations, France and the United States are split on the question of sanctions against Israel. This could be a ticklish point in the Eisenhower - Mollet talks un-

WANT URANIUM FROM U. S. — The six shaded nations are those in the proposed customs union in Europe, on behalf of which French Premier Guy Mollet came to the U. S. His purpose is to obtain enriched uranium for peacetime atomic power reactors, since a pooled power source is one of the aims of the "union." These nations already are tied in a coal-steel pool. France also wants Africa possessions included.

Mass Tagging Upsets Mayor, Police Chief

Monessen City Building was a bedlam yesterday morning and afternoon as a large number of the 120 motorists who received tags for "illegal parking" in downtown early Sunday morning filed verbal protests with Mayor Hugo J. Parente and Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka.

The tags were issued by Lt. Joseph Mischyshyn and four patrolmen working the 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. shift Sunday. The patrolmen were Michael Ferencz, Nello Di-Biaso, Peter Belavich and Paul Sowko.

The motorists were tagged for parking on Donner and Schoonmaker avenues between 4 and 7 a. m. There is a traffic regulation forbidding parking on these avenues between 4 and 7 a. m. daily but until last Sunday motorists violating this rule had never been tagged.

Creates Furor

Just what caused the mass tagging hast created quite a furor. Mayor Parente this morning described it as a "political plot by some of my opponents on the force."

Kuvinka said he questioned Mischyshyn if he had ordered the tagging. Mischyshyn said he did not.

Mischyshyn stated he tagged cars in the Third Ward "not thinking it was Sunday." He added "I certainly oidn't tag cars for political reasons. I have been on the force for more than 18 years and I have never played politics."

Mischyshyn, working with Di-Biaso, tagged 29 cars in the Third Ward.

Parente Foe

Ferencz, an ex-chief of police and bitter political enemy of Parente, worked as a team with Sowko and the two issued 61 tags, just one over half of the total.

The remaining 30 tags were handed out by Belavich.

The Mayor, not mentioning any names but apparently referring to Ferencz, said,

"It looks as though someone is trying to put me on the spot. It is nothing but a political plot. Just how far can one man go."

Parente, who is up for reelection this year, added,

"The whole thing was unfair. Because of the unfairness, every motorist who was issued a tag and has paid for it already, can get his money back by seeing Chief Kuvinka. Those who haven't paid

Knotted Hoses Hamper Firemen In Big Blaze

CLEVELAND, O. (UP)—A knot of sprawling water hoses hampered efforts of firemen to extinguish the remnants of a two and one-half million dollar fire at a Glidden Paint Company plant here this morning.

Firemen used three quarters of the city's fire fighting equipment at the plant blaze to prevent the flames from eating their way to highly volatile paint materials.

There were no injuries in the fire.

Forty five pumpers churned out thousands of gallons of water after being called to the scene shortly after 10 o'clock Monday night.

Company President Dwight Joyce said contents of the plant and value of the building alone would total more than $2,400,000 in losses. He refused to estimate the value of machinery in the plant or the amount of damage.

Employes escaped from the building almost miraculously as the flames spread from a basement. Sealed drums containing volatile materials began exploding almost instantly.

Workmen said they ran out of the building when the lights flickered and went out. Company regulations require employes to leave the building whenever such situations develop.

Boy Stuck as Santa Claus

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Little Larry Thomas may have been thinking of Santa Claus when he tried an experiment Monday night.

Larry, 7, climbed to the roof of a vacant one-story building once used as a barbecue restaurant. Then, just like St. Nick, he crawled into an iron chimney pipe 18 inches in diameter.

It was smooth sailing until his feet landed in an oven at the bottom. At that point he became stuck.

Neighbors, hearing Larry's screams, called police and they pulled the little fellow out.

A check showed Larry suffered no physical injury.

New Kensington Alderman Named

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today asked Senate confirmation of his appointment of Frank Lumbomski, 745 Second Ave., New Kensington, as second ward alderman in the city. The appointment, which runs until January, 1958, replaces Joseph B. Bordonaro, who resigned.

Donora Bridge to Undergo Painting

Plans call for painting the Donora-Webster bridge this year, Washington County Commissioners announced today.

The work will also entail some repairs to the bridge sidewalk.

Commissioner Francis Pettit said the estimated cost of about $30.000 would be shared with Westmoreland County.

Styles Bridges Is Hospital Patient

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen Styles Bridges (R-NH) entered Doctor's Hospital Monday night for therapeutic treatment of a streptococcus infection.

The senator's office said the infection resulted from a cold that he has been trying to shake for the past week.

The 58-year-old senator was expected to be released from the hospital within a few days.

Council Meeting

There will be a regular meeting of City Council tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the City Building.

UN Ambassador Given New Orders That May Break Gaza Deadlock

By UNITED PRESS

The Israeli cabinet cabled new instructions today to Ambassador Abba Eban that may break the deadlock over Israel's refusal to withdraw from Egyptian territory without guarantees against Egyptian attack.

An estimated 50 soldiers of Egypt's Palestine reserve army attacked a police station in the Cairo suburb of Maadi today and exchanged gunfire with Egyptian troops and military police.

Unofficial and unconfirmed reports said eight persons were killed—five Palestinian refugees in the reserve army and three Egyptians. Many were believed injured. No Americans or other foreigners were reported involved, although many Americans live in the Maadi suburb.

The Palestine Arab army is composed of Palestinian refugees attached to the Egyptian army and under Egyptian command. There was no official account of what happened, but there were several unofficial versions.

Homesick Palestinians

One said the trouble was believed to have been caused by the discontent of the Palestinians and their desire to get back to their partitioned homeland. Another said the trouble started when some soldiers quarreled with one of their officers, attacked him, and then stormed into town. A third version said the rioting started during a military drill in which an Egyptian soldier killed a Palestinian soldier with a bayonet—apparently by mistake.

Informed sources in Jerusalem said the instructions, agreed upon by Premier David Ben-Gurion at an early morning meeting with his cabinet, will enable Eban to work out an agreement.

Eban was meeting U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold today in New York for the third time. He met with him twice Monday after weekend talks in Washington with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Canada suggested in the U. N. a four-point program for the Middle East today, including Israel's withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and appointment of a United Nations commissioner for the disputed area.

Given Confidence Vote

Israeli sources in Jerusalem said the new instructions were worked out after the Israeli Knesset (parliament) had given Ben-Gurion a vote of confidence on his stand pat without guarantees policy.

These sources said the vote of confidence not only freed Ben-Gurion's hand for further negotiations but had made the work of Eban far simpler since it had given him freedom to negotiate on wider terms.

An Israeli official said the cabinet sent new instructions to Eban this morning but decided to keep them secret. However, he said the government believed they would enable Eban to work out a "swift agreement."

Already there had been encouraging reports from the Eban-Dulles meeting.

Today's talks between Eban and Hammarskjold pushed further into the background the threat of U.N. sanctions against the Jewish state

'Clean Air' Code Proposed in State

HARRISBURG (UP) — The General Assembly today received proposals for creation of an Air Pollution Control Commission.

Three House bills would put the commission under the state Health Department and give it power to enforce its regulations and spell out a "clean air" code for the state.

The bills were sponsored by Republican Reps. Floyd K. Brenninger, Morton H. Fetterolf Jr., Evelyn G. Henzel and Herman B. Willaredt, all of Allegheny County.

Joseph Loughran Formally Declares Judge Candidate

Attorney Joseph M. Loughran, of Greensburg, today formally announced he will be a candidate for judge of Westmoreland County Common Pleas Court.

The formal announcement was not unexpected since Loughran stated early last December he intended to run for judge — with or without the backing of the Democratic organization in which he had been active for many years

Loughran was an assistant district attorney when he split with the organization. He resigned his post when his boss, District Attorney Alexander Sculco, told him to drop his judgeship ambitions or leave the D. A.'s office.

Sculco is also a candidate for common pleas judge, along with Judge Edward G. Bauer. Both Sculco and Bauer have been endorsed by the powerful Democratic machine.

In his announcement today, Loughran, who is running on both the Democratic and Republican tickets in the May 21 primary, charged Chief County Detective A. B. "Buddy" Turner as being the "self-appointed boss" of the Democratic party. Loughran stated,

"I have been active in Democratic politics for many years, having been elected delegate to the national convention in 1944, 1948, 1952 and 1956. I was chairman of finances of the party for a number of years, working with Jay Kromer, county chairman, in several state and national campaigns.

"My loyalty has never been questioned except by Arthur "Buddy" Turner, who has arrogated himself the role of self-appointed

U. S. Steel to Reopen Cases On Assessments

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The U.S. Steel Corp. apparently has reopened the cases involving tax assessments on its properties in Monongahela Valley mill towns.

The corporation filed an appeal Monday, the last day for such action, from a compromise action effected recently by the Allegheny County Board of Property Assessment.

The compromise had restored about $4,868.000 of an assessment valuation reduction on U.S. Steel plant machinery of more than $17,684.000. The valuation cut had been protested by Homestead, West Homestead, West Mifflin, North Braddock, Rankin and Duquesne.

U. S. Steel officials did not comment on their appeal.

Burgess Daniel Lapp of Homestead, hardest hit of the mill towns, said he was surprised by the company's action.

"It looks like we might have to start all over again," he said.

Fluoridation Meeting Here Next Tuesday

A tri-community meeting to foster the use of fluorine in the local water supply will be held here next Tuesday evening.

Under the sponsorship of the Monessen Junior Women's Club, the meeting will be held at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the Monessen High School.

Invited are representatives of parent-teacher groups, church, civic and social groups, medical and dental groups, newspaper people, teachers, voluntary health agencies, labor groups and business men.

It is the intention of the Junior Women's Club to organize a "Citizens' Committee" to see if there is a public desire to obtain fluoridation.

Fluoridation is a process by which the chemical fluorine is added to the water supply for the purpose of controlling tooth decay. It can be used if a majority of the citizens in the communities of Monessen, Charleroi and Donora request it.

The three communities get water from the same source, the Authority of the Borough of Charleroi.

Dr. Milton E. Nicholson, chairman of the Council of Dental Health of the Pennsylvania Dental Society and Odontological Society of Western Pennsylvania and president of the State Health Association, will speak at the meeting.

Dr. Nicholson will explain fluoridation and its benefits.

Mrs. Joseph M. Dudas, Jr., Junior Women's Club president, said today that an effort will be made at the meeting to organize either separate "Citizens' Committees" for each community or one committee for three communities.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Rose Mascitelli, who died five years ago today, February 26, 1952.
Loving memories never die
As years roll on, and days pass by,
Deep in our hearts a memory is kept
Of one we loved and will never forget.
Friends may think we forgot you
When at times we seem to smile,
Little do they know our sorrow
That the smiles hide all the while,
We think of you in silence
No eyes can see us weep,
But many silent tears are shed
While others are asleep.
A smile, a tear, a thought sincere
How often we wish that you were here.
Sadly missed by Sons, Daughters and Grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Theodore (Ted) Henley, who passed away five years ago today, February 26, 1952.
We have missed you dearest father
More than we can ever say,
For your smile, so like the sunshine
Breaking through a cloudy sky
Will shine for us no more on earth,
Since you went to live on high.
But we're thankful for your presence
For as long as you could stay.
May we meet again dear father
In that mansion far away.
With our eyes upon the heavens,
In our hearts eternal love.
Sleep in peace dearest father
Till we meet in heaven above.
Sadly missed by Wife, Children, Grandchildren and Son-in-law
Written by daughter, Dorothy Beaumont.

Planes Collide; Three Killed

TOKYO (UP)—A supersonic U.S. F100 jet fighter collided with a C47 cargo plane over southwest Japan today. The cargo craft crashed, killing three crew members, the Far East Air Force announced today.

The pilot of the F100 Supersabre was able to land his plane safely at the Itazuke Air Base, near Fukuoka. His craft suffered minor damage, the release said.

Two vacant Japanese houses were destroyed by fire in the cargo plane crash, and there were no Japanese casualties.

One-time Al Capone Rival Dies in Prison

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (UP) — George (Bugs) Moran, 64, one-time flamboyant gang rival of Al Capone for Chicago's lush bootleg trade, will be buried in a pine coffin and clothed in a gray prison suit.

Moran, whose power was broken by Capone's henchmen in the "St. Valentine's Day Massacre," died in relative obscurity Monday at Leavenworth Federal Prison. Death was attributed to lung cancer.

The quiet prison funeral will contrast with the services formerly accorded gangland overlords, which included elaborate rites and a flower-decked casket.

Moran began his crime career as a horse thief and graduated to bootlegging during the prohibition era. His rise as an underworld boss ended abruptly when seven of his followers were chopped apart by machine gun bullets on Feb. 14, 1929.

On that St. Valentine's Day, a carload of men dressed in police uniforms raided Moran's North Side garage. The seven occupants of the garage were lined up with their faces against the wall, as if to be searched by "police."

Moments later, bullets were fired into their backs.

Moran also was targeted to die in the bloody massacre, but arrived a few minutes late for an appointment. He spotted the assassins while approaching his garage headquarters and fled.

Moran once said he wished that when his time to die arrived, he could "die decently in bed—not beside the garbage cans in some Chicago alley."

In recent years, Moran spent much of his time in jails on convictions for relatively small armed robberies. He entered Leavenworth only last month to serve a five-year term for burglary. Warden C. H. Looney said the gangster's health was broken by cancer.

Looney said that since "one son" of Moran's was not in a position to afford to give his father a private burial, "He will be buried here at the prison cemetery within the next two or three days."

A "small funeral" was planned, and other convicts will be allowed to pay their last respects.

"But I don't expect a large turnout," Looney commented.

The Quick Cure For Rheumatism

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (UP)—Former Mayor Frank Martin claims he has a cure for rheumatism. Martin said when a Brahma bull jumped a fence at a recent cattle sale and headed for him, he ran for safety and found himself hanging from a rafter.

"I haven't been troubled with rheumatism since that day," Martin said.

World's First Air Service Over The North Pole

TOKYO (UP) — A sleek white DC7 passenger liner arrived here today with a planeload of Scandinavian notables to inaugurate the world's first air service over the North Pole between Europe and Asia.

Prince Axel of Denmark, Danish Prime Minister H. C. Hansen, Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange and Swedish Cabinet Minister Ingvard Lindell led the group of 47 passengers.

Japanese Transportation Minister Taneo Miyazawa and 50 kimono-clad girls greeted the dignitaries aboard the Scandinavian Airline system's "Guttorm Viking."

The plane left Copenhagen Sunday. It landed here today (6:12 p.m. Monday EST) after an elapsed flying time of 31 hours and 38 minutes.

The polar flight cut 20 hours and 2,300 miles off the present air trip between Copenhagen and Tokyo via southern Europe and the Middle East.

The "Guttorm Viking" took off again six and one-half hours later for the regular Scandinavian Airlines course across southern Europe back to Copenhagen.

Its passengers remained here for a round of receptions and visits with Japanese leaders.

Violence Erupting in Milk Strike; Five Men Are Arrested

NEW YORK (UP)—Fear of violence threatened today to force milk producers into unwilling support of a dairy farmers' strike that could cut the flow of milk to 12 million consumers in the New York metropolitan area.

Dynamiting, shooting, threats and incidents of violence were reported Monday night in the three-state region which comprises the New York milk-shed area.

An explosion rocked the home of Clarence Stanton in Wantage, N. J. Stanton, a member of the United Milk Producers of New Jersey, which ignored the boycott started Sunday by the 3,200-member tri-state Master Dairy Farmers Guild, delivered milk as usual Monday.

Five Men Arrested

No one was injured by the stick of dynamite, allegedly thrown from a speeding automobile, which blew up on Stanton's front lawn, but he said he would not deliver milk today.

In Orange County, in Upstate New York, five men were arrested by state police at Slate Hill Monday night for allegedly firing on a tractor - trailer carrying milk to New York City.

Police said a 30-30 rifle bullet ripped into the truck as it was traveling toward New York on Route 17. The driver, Thurston Bryden, of Deposit, N. Y., was not injured.

Violence and incidents of milk dumping were reported most frequent in Orange County. Gov. Averell Harriman ordered state troopers to reinforce the deputies of Sheriff George Bullis at Goshen.

Bullis had telegraphed the governor earlier to report the situation "out of hand." He had asked Harriman to "declare a state of emergency."

Predicts Strike Spread

State police from as far away as Long Island and Albany were dispatched to aid local authorities in the Orange County communities of Montgomery, Middletown, Circleville, Warwick, Washingtonville, Unionville and Bullville where crowds were reported to be blockading creameries.

Some 7,000 of 45,000 dairymen in northern New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania, which comprises the milk-shed, were estimated to have joined the strike started by the guild Sunday.

The Rev. John W. Dorney, executive director of the guild, predicted that 35,000 farmers would join the strike by the end of the week. He said the dairymen would hold out for a raw milk price of $5.75 a hundredweight, or about 12 cents a quart.

The Federal Metropolitan Milk Marketing Administration had set a price of $4.57 a hundredweight for New York in January. The New Jersey office of milk industry set $5.12 as the price for that state.

Nehru Escapes Injury; Plane Is Forced Down

NEW DELHI (UP) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India escaped injury today when an engine caught fire on his twin-engined campaign plane—a gift of the Soviet government — and he was forced to make an emergency landing.

The plane, a two-engine Ilyushin-14, was presented to Nehru by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin last year when Bulganin and Soviet Communist Party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev were touring India.

The plane landed at a neglected wartime airstrip at Raichur, 110 miles southwest of Hyderabad. Nehru looked untroubled when told of the fire and only smiled when the pilot later apologized to him for the incident.

The accident happened on the third day of the national elections which will last for three more weeks. Nehru flies to various areas to campaign just before voting begins in that particular area.

Your Health—

Long Convalescence Isn't Always Wise

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Prolonged convalescense isn't always a good idea. In fact, the sooner you get back into the normal swing of things — and that includes work — following surgery or injury, the better off you are apt to be.

Every case, of course, should be judged on an individual basis. Your doctor is the best judge as to when you should get out of bed following a serious injury or an operation.

By and large, however, patients may be returned to work much earlier than is normally believed. Recent Air Force studies bear this out.

In general, the Air Force is returning men to duty after about one-half to two-thirds as long a convalescence period as is usually advised.

Take tonsillectomy, for one example.

A survey of two large industries recently showed that employes lost 13.2 days work on the average while recovering from this relatively simple operation.

A public health survey showed an average of 9.1 days lost.

The Air Force, on the other hand, returned men to duty after only 7.7 days.

Experience with operations for hernia shows an even more marked difference.

Colonel Don S. Wenger, of the Air Force medical corps, reports that men were returned to duty within 19.9 days. Industries reported a convalescence period of 33.6 to 51 days and the public health survey showed an average of 72.9 days.

There is no definite evidence that this early return to duty by Air Force personnel is harmful, Col. Wenger reports.

Indeed, prolonged canvalescence might do more damage.

Remaining in bed for a long period is bound to affect your appetite and impair elimination. Both your metabolism and circulation slow down and your muscles begin to waste from inactivity. You're apt to lose weight.

There are psychologic problems, too. You tend to worry about yourself and long to return to your family and friends and your everyday activities.

Col. Wenger has found that in some cases healing is actually accelerated as a result of activity.

Another Tie in TV Quiz Show; Pressure Mounts

NEW YORK (UP)—Charles Van Doren, with a huge chunk of his $143,000 TV winnings riding on the line, will try to shake loose a brainy blonde on his next TV outing in shooting for the giddiest heights in quiz history.

The skinny, 31-year-old Columbia College instructor faced off against Mrs. Vivienne Nearing, a Manhattan attorney, Monday night in two rounds of play on NBC-TV's "Twenty One." Each game ended in a tie, the third such deadlock for Van Doren and Mrs. Nearing in two weeks.

Under the rules of the show, the stakes mount higher after each tie game. Next time out, Van Doren and the 30-year-old Mrs. Nearing will match off at $2,000 per point. That fourth round of play could see Van Doren win or lose as much as $42,000.

A loss would deduct that much from Van Doren's total winnings and automatically bounce him off the program. A win of $42,000, however, would give him $185,000, by far the largest prize in TV annals.

House May Pass GOP Tax Package at Session

One Amendment Beaten Down; Note of Harmony

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state House of Representatives today was expected to give overwhelming approval to the Republican-sponsored tax package on a note of comparative harmony lacking in recent legislative years.

The GOP tax package, which features retention of the 3 per cent sales tax and which its originators estimate will bring the state's tax yield for the next two years to more than $1.5-billion moved quietly into position for final passage at today's session.

House passage of the tax program before the end of February will be in strange contrast to other years where the tax issue posed the major stumbling block to adjournment and resulted in the longest legislative sessions in the state's history.

The one amendment offered Monday night — to prohibit local governments from imposing their own local real estate transfer taxes—was beaten down by a 190-14 vote. Leaders of both parties asked for its defeat on the grounds that the problem should be met by separate legislation.

The package comprises reenactment of the state sales tax at its current 3 per cent rate and elimination of the proposed stamp plan for collections; reenactment of the 6 per cent corporate net income tax, the 1 per cent real estate transfer tax and the 14-mill tax on gross receipts of public utilities; continuation of the one cent added to the cigaret tax by the 1955 Legislature to retain the levy at five cents a pack.

Estimates Differ

The administration and the Republican sponsors differ on the amount of potential revenue it would afford, mainly because of a difference in predictions on how much the sales tax will bring in.

House Republican Leader Albert W. Johnson (R-McKean) also reiterated the GOP's intention to permit the manufacturers' exemption to the capital stock tax to go into effect on schedule next Jan. 1 and said bills to repeal several other so-called "nuisance" business taxes were being drafted.

They would knock out the four-mill corporate loans tax on foreign and domestic corporations, the corporate excise tax on both domestic and out-of-state firms and the stock transfer tax. The combined yield of all the taxes is approximately $10,000,000 a biennium. Gov. George M. Leader called for elimination of all but the stock transfer tax in his budget message.

The Senate, with more than a dozen of its members absent, forwarded plans to curb some of the fiscal policies of one of its prime targets—state Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro.

While senators on both sides of the aisle professed their devotion to an effective mental health program, they insisted that Shapiro's efforts in that direction led him to exceed his prerogatives.

Would Curb Shapiro

Legislation, jointly sponsored by Republicans and Democrats, was aimed at restricting Shapiro's right to use department appropriations. One measure would prevent Shapiro from transferring $250,000 in department funds to the Commonwealth Mental Health Research Foundation. The second would put a halt to the department's current activities in financing college educations for students in exchange for a pledge to take jobs in state institutions on completion of their schooling.

Sen. Hugh J. McMenamin (D-Lackawanna) termed Shapiro's attempt to gift the foundation, which was established by the 1955 Legislature to receive private funds for use in mental research, a "flagrant, arrogant, dictatorial assumption of powers."

"He takes the position that the end justifies the means, whether legal or not," McMenamin said.

Child Crushed By Farm Tractor

BUTLER, Pa. (UP) — Five-year-old David G. Bayer Jr. was crushed beneath a farm tractor at his home two miles north of here Monday when the machine struck a soft spot and overturned.

Butler County Coroner J. Clinton Atwell said the child was riding on the tractor being operated by his father, David Sr., who was excavating for a drainage area at his home.

Atwell said the tractor overturned and pinned the child beneath a wheel. The father was thrown clear and escaped injury.

The child was dead on arrival at Butler County Memorial Hospital.

Vice Squad Officer Is Shot by Woman

PITTSBURGH (UP) —Public Safety Director Louis Rosenberg called for "all the facts" today in the shooting of a police lieutenant by a woman acquaintance in a downtown after-hours club.

Detective Lt. Allen Carnahan, who first said he shot himself accidentally in the club early Sunday morning, changed his story late Monday from his bed in Allegheny General Hospital.

He called Police Superintendent James Slusser and Assistant Superintendent Lawrence Maloney to the hospital and told them he was shot by Shirley Cavanaugh, 28, who once struck a policeman with a water glass when he arrested her for solicitation of prostitution.

Slusser immediately ordered Miss Cavanaugh's arrest.

The revised statement raised the question of whether charges of obstructing justice might be filed against Carnahan and others in the case.

Will Follow Law

"We will do whatever the law tells us we must do as soon as we get all the facts in the case," Rosenberg said. "I am not going to presume on what we will do at this time."

Rosenberg said there have been "many varying reports" on the shooting.

"At first it appeared there were 20 persons in the club at the time ... Later I heard there were only six," he said.

Carnahan, head of the police narcotics squad, explained he was in great pain and shock when he reported the shooting as an accident.

She "Bothered" Him

He said he met Miss Cavanaugh when he entered the club. He said she pulled his .38 caliber service revolver from his pocket as he sat on a bar stool and shot him as he turned around.

Carnahan said he had known the woman for some time and she had been "bothering" him recently, according to Slusser.

Carnahan was shot through the right thigh and groin. The bullet lodged in his left thigh. Doctors said that, fortunately, the bullet missed both thigh bones. Carnahan's condition was "good."

Police records showed Miss Cavanaugh used such last names as Lauterbaugh, Calderone and Horenski. Her record also showed she had served probationary terms on charges of robbery and solicitation of prostitution.

Hearings Will Begin Tomorrow In Pardons Probe

HARRISBURG (UP)—A special legislative committee will begin public hearings Wednesday in its investigation of the state Pardons Board.

Rep. Edwin W. Tompkins (R-Cameron), chairman of the six-member Senate-House group, said board secretary Frank R. Hean, and Delaware County Judges William R. Toll and Arthur P. Bretherick and J. Harold Hughes, assistant county district attorney, would testify during the two-day hearing.

Tompkins indicated Hean will be questioned on Pardons Board procedures in handling clemency pleas. The Delaware County group was called because of the committee's planned inquiry into the commutations granted Michael Caserta, convicted South Philadelphia numbers figure and five others convicted in Delaware County courts for destroying public property.

The Pardons Board investigation originated in the House with the accent on the David Darcy case, in which Darcy and two accomplices had their death sentences commuted to life imprisonment in the killing of a bystander during a Bucks County holdup in 1947.

The committee also plans to look into the clemency granted 16 persons in the 1954 Erie bribe scandal, including former Mayor Thomas Flatley.

Army's Order on Guard Duty Is Slightly Delayed

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La) announced today that the Army and National Guard have agreed to postpone until next Jan. 1 the Army's order requiring six months of active duty for young guard recruits.

The Army has ordered six months active duty for all new guardsmen effective April 1. Under the agreement announced by Brooks, this would be delayed for nine months for recruits between 17 and 18½ years old.

Brooks announced "full agreement" on the compromise at a meeting of his House Armed Services subcommittee. The group approved the agreement in an executive session and Brooks said it will be presented to the full Armed Services Committee.

The agreement came after an Army-Guard feud which produced a charge by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson that the guard had been used as a "draft-dodging business" during the Korean war. The guard denounced Wilson's charge as a "lie" and President Eisenhower said it was "very unwise."

Bomb Threat at Beaver High School Today

BEAVER, Pa. (UP)—Some 850 students were sent home from the Beaver High School today when the school switchboard received a telephone call that a bomb would explode in the building betweeen 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Dr. C. B. McMillan, superintendent of Beaver public schools, said the call was received by Mrs. Janet Williams at 8.15 a.m.

McMillan said he notified Beaver Police Chief Lyle Kimple of the call and they decided to dismiss all classes. McMillan said the students were told they were being sent home because of faulty plumbing, in order not to cause a panic.

Police and firemen, aided by the male teachers, began an extensive search of the school.

McMillan said classes would be resumed Wednesday. He said the call was probably the work of a "prankster trying to get a day off from school."

'Wyatt Earp' to Head Safety Drive

Industrialist Claims State 'Is Slipping'

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Col. Willard F. Rockwell, board chairman of the Rockwell Manufacturing Co., Pittsburgh, said today that "Pennsylvania is slipping" as an industrial state.

Addressing a luncheon session of the 48th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, Rockwell charged that high state taxes are causing industries to move out of the state.

"The two most significant taxes causing this economic blight," he said, "are the capital stock tax and the corporate net income tax. Together, they make Pennsylvania's combined corporate taxes among the highest in the nation." Rockwell said high taxes piled upon constantly increasing costs are "why some of our industries are moving elsewhere and why many manufacturers who plan to build branch plants in this region are not considering our state."

"Just as the force of gravity causes liquids to seek the lowest level," he said, "so do the forces of competition cause industry to seek the area of lowest cost.

"That Pennsylvania is slipping slowly but surely is undeniable because there are fewer workers employed in industry than there were in 1946," he said.

Rockwell said that more and more factories stand idle and "unnecessary" unemployment increases at a time when most of America is enjoying prosperity.

Rockwell said another factor in declining industrialism in Pennsylvania is federal subsidization of industry.

In other states, he said, "lower power costs are subsidized by the government ... Pennsylvanians are being taxed to support government-subsidized power plants in other states."

Rockwell urged "equitable treatment by the federal government," and said the state government "can cut state and local taxes on industry by eliminating waste and broadening the base of taxation."

less Israel soon agrees to withdraw her forces from Egypt.

The Eisenhower administration has indicated it will go along with some form of United Nations sanctions if they are voted. France has said flatly it won't. Reports from Paris said Mollet will try to get Mr. Eisenhower to see the Israeli viewpoint and modify the U.S. position.

The French ambassador to this country, Herve Alphand, said Monday night it would "not be fair to impose sanctions on Israel alone" and there should be an "equal standard" for all U.N. members.

Mrs. Eisenhower Leaves Hospital

WASHINGTON (UP) — Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to the White House Monday afternoon after undergoing a three-day routine examination at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

The White House reported hospital doctors said: "Everything was fine."

The General Assembly met this morning with sanctions as the No. 2 item on its agenda. It was generally believed the body would spend the entire day discussing the first item, Cyprus.

Outcome of the Eban-Hammarskjold - Dulles talks was being closely watched in Cairo where the heads of state of Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Syria were holding the second half of their two-day meeting on the Eisenhower Doctrine.

Cairo dispatches said failure to get Israel out of the Gaza Strip or the Gulf of Aqaba area meant automatic failure of King Saud's mission to "sell" the Eisenhower Doctrine to his reluctant Middle East allies.

Bad to Worse

ATLANTA (UP)—Two Georgia Tech fraternities have cancelled a scheduled battle with ripe tomatoes because it would be "too messy." Instead, they will stage a tug o' war across a big mudhole.

The Pole's Fault

BURBANK, Calif. (UP)—Police said John Wright, 35, was indignant when they arrested him on suspicion of drunk driving Monday after his car collided with a light post. They quoted Wright as protesting, "That pole jumped out and hit me."

Students Escape Shop Building Fire at School

MEDIA, Pa. (UP) —A general alarm fire gutted a shop building of a private trade school near here Monday injuring three persons and trapping six boys in a second floor room for a short while.

The fire at the Williamson Free School of Mechanical Trades in nearby Middletown Twp. was discovered by the six boys who were later trapped until fellow pupils heard their shouts and placed a ladder to the window.

One of the six, Phillip Fry of Hollidaysburg, Pa., was carried down the ladder to safety by another pupil, Edward Goss, of Woodbury, N. J. Fry was treated for smoke inhalation and minor burns at the Media Clinic.

David Hipple a 17-year-old student from Pottstown, Pa., was hit by water from a high pressure hose line and was taken to Crozier Hospital at Upland for eye injuries. Firemen Reese Fox, 27, of Springfield, Pa., was struck by a hose nozzle and suffered an injury to his left ankle.

The six boys had returned to the 50-year-old two and four story brick building from lunch and noticed smoke pouring from the rear. Before they could leave to sound an alarm, the flames spread, forcing them into a second floor lavatory for safety.

In addition to Fry and Goss, the trapped students were Edward Magill of Duncansville, Pa., Charles Bordner of Williamstown, Pa., Bud Lloyd of Philadelphia and Wesley Clark of Willow Grove, Pa.

Loughran

boss of the party in this county.

"It was Mr. Turner who told me a few months ago that I was not to run for judge, since he had personally selected the candidate for the vacancy created by the expiration of the term of President Judge Richard D. Laird. Thereafter, I was asked to resign my position in the District Attorney's office. I promptly accepted the challenge."

Loughran's announcement also said he had been the "working member" of the D. A.'s office, having prosecuted all the major criminal cases for the past 12 years. He recently received nation-wide publicity for sending John Wesley Wable, the "Turnpike Killer" to the electric chair.

Loughran also remarked that Scuilco has "not prosecuted one criminal case during his entire two terms of office."

Claims 'Experience'

The prominent Greensburg attorney said his trial experience qualifies him to sit as a judge, stating he has tried civil cases for persons whose interests make a true cross section of the county.

"Under our system of law," Loughran declared, "A trial judge must constantly interpret and reinterpret the law to meet the demands of justice. In my opinion, only the test of court room experience shapes a lawyer for this important duty.

"If elected, I intend to be an independent and unbossed judge and to discharge the duties of the office to the full extent of my ability, with full respect for the rights of all persons — regardless of my affiliations — coming before the courts. I have been encouraged to seek this office by people from all walks of life, from all sections of the county and from both Democrats and Republicans alike."

Loughran was educated and trained in law at the University of Notre Dame, University of Pittsburgh and the University of Pittsburgh Law School where he received a Bachelor of Law degree in 1931. The following year he was admitted to practice before the Westmoreland County Courts, the Superior and Supreme Courts of Pennsylvania and the United States District Court for Western Pennsylvania.

He and his wife and three children, Charles, Patricia and George, reside on Westmoreland avenue, Greensburg.

CIO Council Meets In State Convention

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Pennsylvania CIO Council met today in its largest and probably its last regularly scheduled convention.

Approximately 1200 delegates representing 650,000 members gathered at the new Sheraton Hotel here a week before the hotel's formal opening. The convention was expected to run through Thursday.

A five-man committee which has been meeting with a delegation from the state AFL group to iron out a joint constitution for merger of the two unions in December will report to the convention.

The committee is composed of state CIO president Harry Boyer and secretary-treasurer Harry Block; John Grajciar, Sharon, United Steelworkers; Joseph Hurter, Philadelphia, Textile Workers; and Robert Davis, Philadelphia, Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

They are expected to tell the delegates that the merger task is of general interest" still to be set-proceeding harmoniously and that there should be no difficulty in following the same pattern which will govern the national merger of the AFL-CIO.

Although the convention which opened today is the group's last regular meeting as an independent organization, a special autumn convention probably will be called in order to formalize the merger with the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor.

The PFL, which will hold its last regular convention in Pittsburgh on March 26, will hold a special meeting coincident with the CIO autumn meeting. Jointure of the two groups will be accomplished by December officials said.

Although merger plans are proceeding smoothly, Boyer said there are "many problems, not the least of which are makeup of officers, selection and number on the executive board (of the merged organization) and other matters of general interest" still to be settled.

GM Earnings Down, but Still Tops

$10 Billion In Sales Reported

NEW YORK (UP)—General Motors Corp. in 1956 outearned every other company in the world despite a more than $340 million decline in net income.

The world's biggest auto maker rang up sales last year of more than $10 billion for the second straight year—a figure no other company has ever approached.

General Motors' net income in 1956 fell to $847,396,102, or $3.02 a share, from $1,189,477,082, or $4.30 in 1955, when it became the first firm in history ever to earn more than $1 billion after taxes.

Sales of $10,796,442,575 compared with $12,443,277,420 in 1955.

Following General Motors as principal money earners were Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), with $800 million, and American Telephone & Telegraph Co., with $777 million.

General Motor Chairman Albert Bradley and President Harlow H. Curtice blamed the drop in sales and earnings on lower auto volume in 1956 and higher operations costs all along the line.

The company's assets at the end of 1956 totaled $6,569,400,736, up more than $200 million from 1955. GM was the second biggest industrial company on the basis of assets, exceeded only by Jersey Standard.

The Bell Telephone System was the world's biggest privately-owned corporate enterprise with assets of more than $16 billion.

Bradley and Curtice said 1957 would be "another good year for the country."

GM paid a total of $1,150 million in taxes last year, which was equal to $1.36 for each dollar of net income.

In other words, the company's tax bill exceeded its net income and its expenditure for growth.

In addition, purchasers of GM products paid the government an additional $833 million in sales and excise taxes.

Paddling School Children Shocks Official of PTA

PITTSBURGH (UP)—An official of the Allegheny County Parent-Teachers Assn. expressed shock today over the views of a Jeannette school director on the subject of paddling.

The school director, Homer Detwiler, had suggested before the Jeannette Joint School Board last week that it might be a good idea to return to the practice of paddling to bring the youngsters back in line.

His views drew an indignant response from Mrs. Robert Werle Jr., chairman of legislation for the county PTA.

Paddling school children, she said, went out with the 18th Century. And the fact that Pennsylvania school laws permit this method of punishment doesn't make it right either, she added.

"The school does not truly fulfill its educative role when it resorts to physical force and coercion," Mrs. Werle said in a letter of protest.

She said paddling would only make a child insecure and fearful and "logic and reasoning can't prevail in a climate of fear."

Detwiler had told the Jeannette Joint School Board he was worried about the "lack of discipline, moral character and courtesy among boys and girls."

Senate Group to Decide on Pay-as-you-see TV Trial

WASHINGTON (UP- — The Senate Commerce Committee plans to vote Wednesday on whether to call for a large scale trial run of pay-as-you-see TV programs.

A majority of the committee was expected to approve the proposal. A tentative draft of a report containing that recommendation already has been prepared by the committee staff and distributed to its members.

Unless followed by legislation approved by Congress, the committee's decision would be merely a recommendation to the Federal Communications Commission. The FCC so far has not acted on petitions asking for a test of subscription television.

In Limited Areas

If a test program should be launched, it could eventually have a great impact on the TV industry. But at the outset, pay-as-you-see TV would be available only in limited areas.

Under the proposed plan, TV viewers could buy coin box attachments or punch cards to unscramble TV signals for shows which could not be seen without these devices.

The tentative Senate report would call on the FCC to reach an early decision on the technical merits of these systems and its legal powers in the matter.

However, the report says that pay-as-you-see TV should be submitted to reasonable tests and could not be tolerated if it threatens the success of the existing TV system.

The chief supporters of subscription television at Senate committee hearings last year were the Zenith Radio Corp., the International Telemeter Corp. and the Skiatron Corp. All have developed subscription systems.

Opponents of the proposal included the existing TV networks, the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters and Motion Picture Exhibitors.

Supporters suggested that the proposed system would permit telecasts of such shows as operas and concerts with audiences too small to attract commercial sponsors and sporting events now kept off TV because of the effect on attendance.

Opponents expressed fear that pay-as-you-see television might wreck the present system of commercially - sponsored shows and limit TV viewing to a smaller audience able and willing to pay.

Mesta Workers Vote on Union

HOMESTEAD, Pa. UP)—About 900 production and maintenance workers at the Mesta Machine Co. plant in West Homestead will vote March 7 on whether to remain unorganized or to affiliate with the International Molders & Foundry Workers Union.

The election will be held under the auspices of the National Labor Relations Board.

The Mesta plant is one of the largest unorganized manufacturing plants in Western Pennsylvania. Several unsuccessful efforts to organize its employes had been made in the past by other unions, including the United Steelworkers.

Reporters Tell Of Conspiracy In Teamsters

WASHINGTON (UP) — Two Portland, Ore., reporters told Senate racketeering investigators today that Teamster Union officials conspired with racketeers, gamblers and the district attorney in an attempt to take over the Portland city government.

The reporters, Wallace Turner and William Lambert, who wrote a prize - winning series of dispatches for the Portland Oregonian on their own investigation on Teamster Union activities, said the Senate's hand-picked committee on racketeering can uncover even more of the "disgraceful condition" which they said afflicts Portland. They said local government officials lack power to clean it up.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said in an opening statement launching the year's biggest congressional inquiry that the underworld is muscling into control of unions and employer associations. He said the first series of hearings will show how "unscrupulous politicians" control and operate organized vice in Portland.

Turner, a blond, crew-cut reporter, said racketeer James B. Elkins became "disenchanted" with fellow conspirators in Portland and spilled the story of their activities. He said Elkins would testify in the hearings.

Pitt Student Nabs Burglar In Fraternity

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Henry Fisher, 21, a University of Pittsburgh student, was burning the candle early today boning up on his studies when he heard a noise outside his room in the Sigma Aopha Epsilon fraternity house.

He opened his door and came face to face with a burglar.

The burglar, shoeless, turned and ran with Fisher in pursuit. Fisher, an ex-Marine, caught up with the suspect at the bottom of a stairway and subdued him after a struggle.

Police said the suspect, John Farmer, 22, had returned to Pittsburgh only Monday from Cleveland where he had been freed on parole in connection with a burglary at a Cleveland fraternity house.

Police said Farmer had on him a small crowbar, several wallets and a checkbook, none of which had been obtained in the fraternity house. They were investigating to determine where Farmer obtained the wallets and checkbook.

Wants Police Cars Painted All White

HARRISBURG (UP)—Pennsylvania Turnpike speeders have a stake in a bill introduced in the General Assembly.

The House legislation would require state police on the turnpike to paint their patrol cars white. The measure was sponsored by Rep. Francis Worley (R-Adams).

Another Horse Race Betting Bill

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General Assembly has received another proposed bill to authorize pari-mutuel horse race betting in Pennsylvania.

Democratic Reps. Samuel Floyd and Jesse J. Shields, both of Philadelphia, sponsored House legislation to set up a racing commission and allow race tracks with betting. The bill is the fourth this session aimed at horse race wagering.

Fears Doctrine Fight Will Damage Policy

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Democratic senator voiced fear today that attacks on President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine may develop into a "wholesale assault" on America's internationalist foreign policy.

Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore), who said he had not decided how to vote on the proposal, told newsmen that whether it passes or fails, "I trust this debate will not leave in wreckage a bipartisan foreign policy founded on internationalism and a strong system of alliances and similar close ties with other nations."

Vote Next Week

The Senate moved into its second week of debate on the modified Middle East resolution with no indication of a vote before next week.

As approved by two Senate committees, the resolution states the United States is "prepared to use armed force" if the President deems it necessary to halt Communist aggression in the Middle East.

President Eisenhower asked for "authority" to use U.S. forces, but is reported agreeable to the Senate language. The resolution also authorizes the President to spend up to $200 million in already - appropriated funds for Mideast aid.

Wants Debate Limited

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex) said Monday he will seek the Senate's consent later this week to limit remaining debate. But Sens. Wayne L. Morse (D-Ore) and Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) promptly announced they will block any such agreement, which requires unanimous consent, for the time being.

The doctrine resolution came in for heavy criticism Monday in speeches by O'Mahoney and Sens. Herman E. Talmadge (D-Ga) and William E. Jenner (R-Ind).

Senate Republican Whip Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) and Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) defended it.

Johnson's proddings and pleas brought the fullest, liveliest day of debate thus far on the Eisenhower Doctrine. But the Senate still appeared a long way from a final vote.

Plant Is Destroyed By Fire

BUTLER, N.J. (UP)—A general alarm fire gutted a four-story rubber plant early today in the heart of Butler.

The fire, which started in the Pequannock Soft Rubber Co. plant at about 12:30 a.m. EST, virtually split the building.

The front wall of the building collapsed into Main street. The plant's rear wall cascaded down onto the tracks of the Susquehanna Railroad which runs behind the plant.

Authorities said they expected the fire in the plant which covers a three-block area to burn until this afternoon. Firemen were threatened by intermittent explosions which shattered windows in the area.

Workers Evacuated

An estimated 200 employes who were working in the plant when the fire started were evacuated safely. One fireman was injured fighting the blaze and several others were treated for smoke inhalation.

The county civil defense director declared the vicinity surrounding the plant a "disaster area."

About 2,000 persons in Butler work in the town's two rubber plants. Pequannock is a subsidiary of the American Hard Rubber Co. The latter was not damaged by the blaze.

Residents of private homes opposite the plant were evacuated when flames threatened their buildings.

The fire caused a power blackout for about an hour and a half in Butler and the nearby town of Bloomingdale. Power was restored early today to both communities except in the immediate vicinity of the fire.

Truman Ends Florida Stay

MIAMI (UP) —Former President Truman, tanned and full of vigor after a two-week Florida vacation, leaves today in his private railroad car for Independence, Mo.

Mr. Truman ended his holiday by collecting $40,000 at a $50-a-plate lunch here Monday for the Truman Memorial Library in his home town.

Mr. Truman, who will be 73 in May, got plenty of sunshine in his vacation in the Florida Keys, despite taking time out to make four speeches, one a major address on foreign policy.

He went deep sea fishing at least three times, but confessed that "Bess," Mrs. Truman, "caught all the fish."

High Court Revokes Book Ban

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Supreme Court has struck down another state effort to limit what the public may see, hear and read.

In a unanimous ruling the nine justices invalidated a Michigan law banning distribution of books which contain obscene language or descriptions tending to corrupt youth.

The decision was one of 1 6handed down Monday as retiring Justice Stanley F. Reed ended his 19-year career on the high court. The outpouring of opinions was the heaviest in recent memory.

In another opinion Monday the court:

Ruled 6 - 3 that state courts may admit as evidence blood samples taken from unconscious drivers suspected of being drunk.

The book involved in the Michigan case was "The Devil Rides Outside," by John H. Griffin, a blind war veteran of Mansfield, Tex. The story relates the experiences of an American musician studying at a French monastery who is torn between sensuality and his longing for a spiritual life.

Michigan had argued that in shielding youth from obscenity it was exercising its power to promote the general welfare.

"Surely this is to burn the house to roast the pig," Justice Felix Frankfurter said in his opinion.

Other states with similar laws are Colorado, Florida, Iowa, Maine, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

More Coal in the Future

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP)—Dr. H. Beecher Charmbury, professor of mineral preparation at Pennsylvania State University, believes the coal industry must look forward to a steadily increasing growth to meet the country's needs.

In spite of recent developments in atomic and solar energy, the professor predicts the constant rise in population and the sharp expansion of public demand for greater conveniences will continue to supply the impetus for progress in the coal industry.

"When we add to the coal needed for industrial and domestic uses the energy that will be required in the not too distant future to supplement our oil and gas supplies and the coal that will soon be increasingly used for coal chemicals, the long-term prospect for the coal industry is good indeed," Charmbury said.

Dr. Charmbury warned, however, that the coal industry must have help if it is going to make the proper progress. He cited the need for more technically trained engineers for the efficient production, preparation and utilization of coal.

The professor pointed out that in Pennsylvania more research is needed to determine more economical methods of extracting coal. Most of the reserve tonnage in Pennsylvania is in seams less than 30 inches thick, Charmbury said. He said that using present methods it was difficult to mine these profitably and meet competition.

Israel Should Be Helping the U. S.

DURING the national and international discussion of what should be done about Israel's refusal to recall its troops from Egypt, much has been said about possible punishment of Israel by the United Nations, including the United States. The term "sanctions" appears often in the news dispatches.

The apologists in this country for Israel's conduct have been making much of this — too much, in our opinion. They draw a picture of a brave but tiny nation struggling for its life against a crush of powerful neighbors bent upon its destruction. And surely, they say, the United States, the great friend of the weak and helpless, will not be a party to the punishment of such a nation.

This picture is overdrawn. For one thing, Israel, while both brave and tiny, is by no means helpless. The swiftness with which the Israeli army disposed of the Egyptian forces in the aggressive invasion last fall left little doubt as to the relative military strength of Israel and her Arab neighbors. And this ratio is hardly likely to be disturbed without the introduction on a large scale of Soviet equipment and personnel, something which the policies of the U. S. government are specifically designed to prevent.

Which brings us to the direct relationship between the U. S. and Israel.

* * *

WE THINK it is plain foolish for anybody to think that it would be a purpose of the American government, either alone or through the U. N., to set out to punish Israel. Those Americans who are imputing such an intention to the Eisenhower administration are seeing ghosts.

The emphasis, it seems to us, should rather be on Israel's obligation to support the efforts of the United States to promote peace in the Middle East. It is literally true, of course, that Israel exists because of the help it receives from the United States. Without that help there just would be no Israel next week.

The Arab leaders are well aware of this. And in their eyes, the failure of the United States to persuade Israel to correct its aggressive misbehavior is evidence of the disqualification of the United States to act as an effective peace-maker in the Middle East. If the United States does not have sufficient influence, they reason, with a little nation wholly dependent upon it to get it to do what is plainly the right thing to do, then the United States is not a proper mediator.

* * *

THE LEADERS of Israel, and the partisans of Israel in this country, should try, looking at the situation in this light. If they do, we think they will conclude that what is most important is not what the United States may do to Israel but what Israel may do to the United States.

Premier Ben-Gurion seems to think the future of Israel is going to be decided in the Gaza strip and in the Gulf of Aqaba. It isn't at all.

The future of Israel lies in a Middle East which is, first of all, free of the threat of Communist domination and, second, where there is some respect for law and order.

Israel and its apologists, instead of worrying about whether the United States is going to use a club on Israel, had better concern themselves with helping the United States in its efforts to construct this kind of environment. At the moment this means that Israel should quit embarrassing the United States by keeping its troops where they have absolutely no legal right to be.

It Isn't Necessary

THE MOST DRAB and dismal time of the year may be the right time to raise the subject of beautification of Monessen and what might be done about it.

Just to mention that the people of a steel town might want to improve its general appearance may seem to some a contradiction. Aren't such towns dirty and unkempt by the very nature of their principal occupation?

Well, we don't happen to think so. It's certainly true that many steel towns — perhaps most — are that way. But that they have to be, we refuse to admit.

No doubt they have to try harder to be attractive than some other towns. They have to fight harder to keep their streets clean, for instance. They probably have to paint more often, and growing things require more attention.

But there is no logical reason why a steel town can't be dotted with well kept parks. There is no reason why its hillsides must be left to ugly erosion or why its vacant lots have to be weed-grown refuse dumps. And a steel town, like any other kind of town, can require its property owners to keep their premises in respectable condition.

Next question: why isn't something done about these things?

The only answer can be that the people lack the necessary interest and leadership.

Merry-Go-Round—

Mollet to Stress Unity Of Europe

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — When Premier Guy Mollet of France sits down with President Eisenhower for the talks which Secretary Dulles so long postponed for fear of antagonizing the Arabs, he will be setting two near records.

Mr. Pearson

Record No. 1 — He will have continued in office longer than any other postwar French premier — if he reaches the date of March 15, as he undoubtedly will. He's already been in office 13 months—longer than any other postwar premier except Henri Queuille.

Record No. 2 — More important, Mollet comes to Washington at a time when France has no problems with Germany for the first time in 100 years.

Three wars have started on the continent of Europe because of French-German rivalry — the Franco-Prussian War, World War I, and World War II.

Today all questions between France and Germany have been settled, and the two men who govern them, Mollet and Chancellor Adenauer, genuinely like each other.

This leads to the two main points Mollet will emphasize in his talks with Eisenhower. They are:

1. A united Europe.
2. Eur-Africa.

For years, Mollet has been preaching a united Europe. The seeds of that idea were planted when he was a small boy in Arras near the Belgian border in World War I and watched his town get shot up, bombarded, beaten to a pulp first by the German armies, then by the Allied armies, then by the Germans.

Cooperation of Africa

Later he became mayor of Arras, later chairman of the European Assembly at Strasbourg, also a member of the European Coal and Steel Community, which has laid the foundation for European economic unity.

Mollet has been a tough and open critic of Dulles's Suez policies. But there is one thing he can thank Dulles for. France and England have been so sore at the United States, they have worked harder at European unity. With the American alliance disrupted, they realize the importance of getting along among themselves.

Premier Mollet will outline to Eisenhower his plans for putting European cooperation to work in Africa — a policy which he calls Eur-Africa.

Recent French oil exploration shows vast oil deposits in the Sahara, enough to make Europe independent of King Saud and the Near East. Mollet wants to develop these in cooperation with Germany, Belgium, Italy, and Western Europe. He also wants to make Africa part of the European economic community through French and German capital, Italian labor, American and German machinery, French administrative know-how.

NOTE — The point Mollet will probably argue most vigorously with Eisenhower is that Nasser has got to go. There can be no peace in the Near East while Nasser continues to stir up the Moslem world. Mollet will point out that the Cairo radio is the only radio station reaching all the Near East 24 hours a day in 32 languages and dialects, constantly preaching distrust of the West and friendship with Russia.

Lease-purchase Flunks

The much-vaunted lease-purchase building program is bogged down much more than the public has ever dreamed. "Lease-purchase" is the plan to construct government buildings with private money, then lease them to Uncle Sam for 25 years, after which they become government property.

The idea was concocted by budget-balancers in order to prevent the outlay of government funds for capital expenses, and thereby balance the budget.

However, here are the unpleasant figures on what happened: since the lease-purchase program started in July 1954, 149 projects have been approved at a cost of $766,000,000. But only one has been completed — a post office at Rock Island, Ill.

Congressman Robert E. Jones of Scottsboro, Ala., will expose all this today or tomorrow. He will also propose that the government go back to the simple system used for 170-odd years, of appropriating government money to build post offices and other buildings.

SNAFU in the Grand March Department

From Washington—

State Dept. Public Relations

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The quality of the man whom Secretary Dulles will soon appoint to fill the now vacant post of Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs is tremendously important.

Mr. Drummond

The work of this office is far more than a convenient service to the press. It is vital to the effective functioning of the whole department because a Secretary of State today can accomplish little without public understanding and support.

There are two prime qualifications for this job from which Carl W. McCardle, formerly Washington bureau chief of "The Philadelphia Bulletin," has just resigned to enter private business after four years of public service:

A public affairs chief must have the full confidence and backing of the Secretary.

He must have sufficient stature and independence of character so that he doesn't feel he is risking his future when he has to cross an important Foreign Service officer in the department.

Carl McCardle has had these qualifications to a high degree. The department will be the weaker if his successor does not possess them.

Ex AP Man Mentioned

If the new Assistant Secretary, as has been hinted, is to be Andrew H. Berding, now an assistant director of the United States Information Agency and former Washington and foreign correspondent for the Associated Press, then the outlook is good.

It would be ridiculous to say that Mr. McCardle has never stubbed his toe or had it stubbed for him when he was loyally covering up for somebody else. But in all the matters which count most from the standpoint of communication to the public and the press, Mr. McCardle has wrought a considerable revolution within the department. There are still some officials who are shaking their heads after giving up their resistance. Here are some of the things he has accomplished:

Because of his close relations with Mr. Dulles, Mr. McCardle didn't have to work on the fringes of policy formulation, as has usually been the case in the past. He was always in the center of policy formation and this was invaluable to his effective functioning.

He opened up the whole State Department to the press and to the public as never before. Secretary Dulles has held 81 full-length, full-questioning press conferences. Other officials in the department have totaled about 275 press conferences yearly. This in addition to numerous background briefing sessions. The Secretary's press conferences now are for direct quotation and are televised.

Documents Published

The full documents of international conferences are being promptly published. The record of the meeting of the Big Four Foreign Ministers in Geneva, for example, was published in eight days; it has usually taken eight months to eight years.

Some department officials used to make themselves unavailable to those they deemed "unfriendly" correspondents. Mr. McCardle put an end to that. With notable success he fought the battle for full disclosure apart from security and pending negotiations. His argument wasn't that this should be done as a "favor to the press" but as the right of the public to know and in the interests of a foreign policy which can rarely be stronger than its public acceptance.

Anybody who knows Mr. McCardle's understanding of the role of a free press would know, without being told, that he opposed the State Department's untenable decision to use the rights of the press as an instrument of negotiation with Red China. The department would not be in the box it made for itself if Mr. McCardle's view had been allowed to prevail.

President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles have taken the position that American newspapers should not be free to report the news from Communist China at first-hand as long as the Communists hold the remaining ten Americans behind the Bamboo Curtain. Now Red China has indicated that it would release these prisoners if American reporters were allowed to travel to China and the Department can't accept this offer without appearing to barter what isn't barterable — the freedom of Americans who have committed no crimes.

Mr. McCardle's influence has almost invariably been on the right side.

Socialist Was Sincere Believer

By UNITED PRESS

In his introduction to the "Memoirs of Michael Karolyi," (Dutton) A. J. P. Taylor says that if the pure socialist state ever is achieved, Michael Karolyi will be numbered among its saints. If this should happen the canonization undoubtedly would be not for the accomplishments of this nobleman socialist, but for his example. Karolyi was a failure as a socialist leader but as a believer in sharing the wealth he was indisputably sincere.

One of Hungary's richest noblemen before World War I, he broke up his vast holdings, estimated at 25 million pre-war pounds, and distributed them to the startled peasants. "I felt as if a great weight had fallen from my heart, for I had always felt the guilt of possessing such wealth," he said.

Lawyers Guild Part of New Deal Coalition

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)— The National Lawyers Guild concluded in New York over the weekend a 20th anniversary convention which is a reminder that back there in February, 1937, FDR's New Deal both came of age and began to wither.

Mr. Wilson

That was the month and year in which John L. Lewis' brash Congress of Industrial Organizations CIO put an arm-lock for keeps on big industry in the United States.

The first week of February, 1937, saw Mr. Roosevelt's plan for reorganization of the Supreme Court presented to Congress.

The National Lawyers Guild was born in the Washington Hotel here after four days of labor pains ending Feb., 22, 1937.

GOP Prostrate

Mr. Roosevelt's Supreme Court plan broke the fighting front of the New Deal coalition in the least expected of sectors — that held by the Democratic Party itself.

All of this came in a matter of months after the 1936 New Deal political sweep which gave FDR every state but Maine and Vermont. The Republican Party was prostrate, its congressional membership reduced to a handful.

Mr. Roosevelt's court plan was denounced as a program of court packing. The bitter debate became more bitter as it progressed in a matter of six months to a smashing Senate repudiation of the President's court plan.

Emboldened by FDR's sortie against the Supreme Court, a group of New Deal lawyers decided to attack an almost equally strong point of tradition and political conservatism — the American Bar Association. These New Dealers set up their own association and called it the National Lawyers Guild.

A Communist Front

On the evidence available, the Guild from its inception, as was the New Deal, became infiltrated with Communists and fellow travellers.

But the Guild remained in business, often busily propagandizing left-wing projects and from time to time feuding with Director J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities soon tagged the Guild as a "Communist-operated front organization, primarily intended to serve the interests of the Communist Party in the United States."

Years elapsed, however, before an attorney general acted on committee charges officially to add the Guild to the Justice Department's list of subversive organizations. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. did that in 1953, and the Guild at once sought judicial relief in proceedings still pending.

Fairly Spoken—

'Who's Who' Is Needed For 'Just Housewives'

By MARGARET LATROBE

Congress had better repeal that 19th Amendment and be done with it. With Clare Boothe Luce predicting that "women may soon control the House as well as the home," with Labor Department figures showing women to be official heads of five million households — Congress, it's later than you think.

Mrs. Latrobe

A "Who's Who" for women only (due in 1958) is the latest indication that the USA may eventually be No Man's land. And you want to bet the girls get a prettier book binding than the companion volume for men?

Fifteen thousand names are expected by the publishers to be added to feminine rosters of the former editions of "Who's Who." To select these names, fashion magazines, professional and social organizations, press and politics are being invited to scrutinize their ranks for qualified ladies. The wisdom of sharing this touchy task may be nullified by a surprising naivete on the part of publishers. Only 15,000 new names? That number won't even cover standing-committee chairwomen. Better plan on issuing a set of 12 volumes, fellows!

However excellent recognition of women may be, I just hope this is not one of the last straws to break the back of home sweet home. With "housewife" being constantly prefaced by "Just a . . ." in the minds of those who are "just" that, I wonder if another publication isn't long overdue. One that might give prestige and recognition to those unusually skilled as homemakers.

Men, through advertising and inventiveness, have about convinced wives that automation begins at home. Women, foolish little ostriches, believe it. The unfortunate result is an undercurrent of dissatisfaction. Homemaking has changed — but it isn't easier, as so many of us seem to think.

Here is a real job with challenges enough for the most talented. Yet we say "I'm just a housewife . . ." We think of ourselves as combined scullery maids and charwomen, lucky to dress up on Saturday night to get away from it all. We seek jobs outside the home which require not one-tenth the intelligence of banking homefires and fortunes. We resist being "just housewives." From simple clerical feats to investment banking, from simple family relations to wide community influence, from plain sock-darning to heights of artistic design — these are part of homemaking. But there is no tangible recognition for such efforts, no "Who's Who" extolling such accomplishments, no paycheck affirming equal pay for equal work.

If homes are important to our society, let's say so. The woman who creates and preserves this home is surely more than "just a housewife." She has a fine career, worthy of "Who's Who." All I say is, haven't we left out one chapter of the book? And is it any wonder women are more interested in running the House than the home?

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a Miriam original gown styled floor length with a tiered tulle skirt inserted with side panels of lace and misty tulle ending in a chapel sweep. The bodice of Chantilly lace had full sleeves and a scalloped neckline. A gold cross, a gift of the bridegroom, was her only jewelry.

To Televise State Title Game

The state title basketball game on March 30th will be televised again this year from Penn Palestra in Philadelphia. For the fifth straight time, Bell Telephone Co. will pick up the tab . . . The Fayette County Coaches Association has made a $100 contribution to the Richard Kadis Fund . . . The unbeaten Monessen Cro-Ams will challenge the Donora Croatian Club to a benefit basketball game on Thursday at the Donora High floor. Proceeds will go toward the March of Dimes Fund . . . West Virginia University has certainly dominated Southern Conference sports activity. The Mountaineers have won 20 straight Conference games in football and 17 in a row in basketball.

Three teams — McKeesport, Sharon and Allentown — will go into the PIAA playoffs with unbeaten records. The last school to win the state title without a loss was Aliquippa back in 1949. That brilliant team, coached by Sam Milanovich, romped over 29 foes without trouble . . . George Tarasovic, Pittsburgh Steeler footballer, was in town the other day visiting with his old friend, George Nicksich, currently the city's Recreation Director . . . Erman Lee Hartman, sophomore member of the Brownsville High basketball team, is a high honor student.

Hayduk to Have His Hands Full

John Hayduk, Monessen High's new baseball coach, will have his hands full in his first season at the helm. Hayduk will have only one regular back, Carl Crawley. Meanwhile Monongahela, Donora and California are all coming up with strong teams while Charleroi's defending champions return almost to a man . . . Don Rose, who had great basketball success at Irwin but none at North Huntingdon, has reportedly applied for the Greensburg job. That spot will soon be vacated when Harold Smith, the present Greensburg coach, heads south to manage his motel business in Miami.

College football scouts seeking the services of Centerville's Robert (Red) Worrell have added a new wrinkle. Most of them have invited Red to take along his wife when visiting their campus. And Red has done just that in recent trips . . . By the way, the Worrells reportedly have a date with the stork. Red plans to play in the Prep All-American game in Kansas next August . . . ### McKeesport Posts Finest Record

The current McKeesport High basketball team authored the finest record in the school's history, winning 22 consecutive games. The Tigers thus topped the 18-0 record posted back in 1921 . . . By the way, McKeesport has now won 17 straight games at home and 45 of the last 46 at the Tiger hardwood. In league play, the McKeesporters have won 47 of their last 50 assignments and 71 of their last 78 . . . On the subject of records, Allentown High isn't doing bad either. The Canaries now have a 35 game steak at home going for them. They also have won their last 35 games in Eastern League competition.

Pennsylvania First in National Loop Players

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Pennsylvania is the leading producer of National League players, the loop's annual Green Book showed today, but on an overall major league basis the Midwest is the top incubator for those who make the baseball big top.

Pennsylvania produced 30 of this year's crop of National Leaguers followed by California with 29, New York 28, Ohio 20, Illinois 15 and Texas and Missouri each 14.

The Pennsylvania - New York one-two punch makes the East the predominant section in the senior circuit with a total of 90 players against 86 from the Midwest, 62 from the South, 38 from the West, 24 from the Southwest and 17 foreign-borns.

Yet, on the overall basis, California is the leading big league state with 70 players in both leagues while Pennsylvania has 55 and New York 52.

Midwest States Follow

After that come Illinois with 38, Missouri 35, Ohio 31 and Michigan 29 to boost the Midwest to the overall top with 175 players in the big leagues against 162 for the East, 131 from the South, 89 from the West, 45 from the Southwest and 36 foreign-borns.

Proving that there have been "hitter's years" lately as the pitchers moan about the "rabbit ball," Richie Ashburn of the Phillies made 503 putouts last season for a record seventh season in which he has made more than 400 putouts per year. But, then, maybe it's the fault of the Phillies' pitching staff.

Because when Sal Maglie and Carl Erskine hurled no-hitters despite the kangaroo pellet it was only the third time since 1915 that the National League saw two no-hitters in one season. Because Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, with his seventh 20-game season, set a record for National League lefthanders and also showed the way in complete low-run games with 15 such efforts in which he yielded two runs or less.

Slap At Stengel?

In what looks like a kind of sneaky swat at Casey Stengel, the National League makes a big point out of listing its most successful managers in 1,000 or more games. The accolade goes to "Peerless Frank" Chance of the ancient Cubs with a .665 percentage.

Stengel ranks no better than 21st with a .440 percentage at Brooklyn and Boston, proving, no doubt, that you gotta have talent on your ball club. You'd think the American League would take a tip and list its managers thusly—where Stengel would shine on a record of seven pennants and six world championships in eight years.

The Milwaukee Braves must have gotten a bum rap when Jackie Robinson accused them of losing the pennant by night-clubbing. Why, they were no better than third to Cincinnati and Brooklyn in night play—yet led in the arduous business of winning double-headers.

Rostraver Juniors Win Sec. 3 Title

Defeat Vernon in Exciting Game at MHS Gym, 42-32

Rostraver Junior High reigned today as Section 3 champions.

The tall and talented students of Coach George Estok won the crown last night by whipping Vernon, 42-32, in a playoff game at the Monessen High gym.

That victory for the Little Leps settled the title issue after the regular season race ended in a deadlock.

Close Game

Rostraver led almost all the way last night. However there was never more than an eyelash separating the two teams until the closing moments.

The score was tied at the end of the first period, 13-13. At intermission, Rostraver nudged in front, 23-17.

However the spunky Puppies came right back to pull close at 29-27 with just five minutes to play. With 2:30 to go, Rostraver was ahead only 33-30.

At that point, the bigger Rostraver boys broke loose to win going away.

More than 1,500 fans sat in on the thrill-packed tussle. And they got their money's worth from the two Junior High quints.

Willie Ross led the Rostraver scoring with 14 points. Harry Fields chipped in with 10.

Saddler Has Operation on Eye

NEW YORK (UP) —Officials of Flower Fifth Ave. Hospital expressed hope today that an eye operation performed on Sandy Saddler will enable the former world featherweight champion to resume boxing

Saddler underwent a "most successful" operation for a detached retina in his right eye Monday afternoon

The injury forced the New York fighter's retirement from the ring on Jan. 22 after he had held the featherweight title since Sept. 8, 1950. Saddler claims he suffered the eye injury in an auto accident last summer.

Set Dates for Racing Show At Cumberland

The stage is set for one of the nation's outstanding Sports Car Sprint Races — The Cumberland Classic.

This year's three-day event, scheduled for May 17, 18 and 19, is expected to attract one of the largest crowds ever to witness a Sports Car "spectacular" featuring Europe's finest rating machinery.

In addition to the speedy foreign "bombs", over a score of Corvettes and T-Birds, America's version of Sports Cars, will be entered in the fierce competition.

Two records are expected to fall at this year's classic: The spectator record set in 1956 when some 61,000 persons lined the hillside overlooking the race course is almost sure to be surpassed.

Heavy Footed

The driver participation record also set in 1956 when some 250 of the nation's top sports car pilots "heavy-footed" their screaming machinery around the 1.6 mile course will likely fall.

The 1957 Classic will again be co-sponsored by the Cumberland Lions Foundation and Steel Cities Region of the Sports Car Club of America.

Steel Cities will handle the technical phase of the three day meet, while the Lions Foundation will assume other sponsor duty aspects.

General Chairman of the race classic featuring nine events for the different displacement classes is Attorney William R. Carscaden of Cumberland.

Race Chairman

This year's race chairman is Stanley R. March, Steel Cities Regional Executive.

The 1957 Classic will again be staged at the Cumberland Municipal Airport which is now recognized in racing circles as one of the "roughest spring circuit" in the world.

The seven "hairpin" turns on the 1.6 mile course is a challenge to both man and machinery.

The meet will officially get under way on May 17 with the inspection of cars and driver meetings. Saturday has been set aside as a warm-up day when drivers make mandatory practice runs. But the big day is Sunday, May 19, when man's skill and the car's endurance will be set on the line for test

Detroit Tiger Race Wide Open For Hot Corner

By UNITED PRESS

Manager Jack Tighe endorsed Ray Boone as his first baseman today, automatically making third base on the Detroit Tigers the "hot corner" in fact as well as in name

Tighe's designation of the 33-year-old Boone to play first threw the battle for the "hot corner" open to four players. Jim Finigan, former Kansas City infielder, is the No. 1 candidate but Tighe said equal consideration will be given to Jack Dittmer, Reno Bertoia and rookie George Risley.

A flurry of signings developed, meanwhile, as the teams and players began to get impatient for the official March 1 opening of spring training.

Bob Buhl, the hatchet - faced right-hander who "cut down" the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers eight times and had an overall 18-8 record, signed with the Milwaukee Braves for an estimated $5,000 raise.

Sign Mossi

The Cleveland Indians signed pitcher Don Mossi and first-baseman Preston Ward before greeting two key players who put on some extra heft during the winter—fireballer Herb Score and first-baseman Vic Wertz. Score checked in at 200 pounds, a gain of 10 pounds, and Wertz weighed 202—12 more than he reported at after his polio bout in 1956.

Arizin Heads For Scoring Title

NEW YORK (UP) —Injuries to both of his chief rivals have just about assured Philadelphia's Paul Arizin of his second National Basketball Association scoring championship.

Defending champ Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks, who suffered a broken wrist 10 days ago, clung to a narrow lead over Arizin in the weekly scoring list issued today by the NBA, but it was obvious that lanky Bob's rule was doomed.

Pro Gridders Ask for Meeting

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Joe Schmidt, player representative for the Detroit Lions, urged National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell today to call a meeting of the Players Assn. and team owners.

In a telegram sent from his Pittsburgh home, the Detroit linebacker said his teammates support the Players Assn. "100 per cent."

Team owners have refused to recognize the Players Assn. as official bargaining agent for the players in the league.

"Our association is comprised of 370 determined and very well organized players," Schmidt's telegram said. It described the program rejected by the owners as "just" and "one that is badly needed."

Court Ruling May Ruin Pro Football

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver ordered a staff study of the anti-trust status of various professional sports today to determine possible action by his Senate Anti-Monopoly subcommittee.

The Tennessee Democrat acted in the wake of a 6-3 decision handed down Monday in which the U.S. Supreme Court refused to give professional football the immunity from anti-trust prosecution enjoyed by organized baseball.

"I will have the subcommittee staff look into the whole question and thoroughly research the background," Kefauver told the United Press. "Then the subcommittee, at an early meeting, can consider whether it should look into the situation further."

Bell Accepts Ruling

Kefauver, who played football for the University of Tennessee and captained its track team, expressed personal interest in the question. He said he plans to read the high court's football decision in full and added he has received some memos on the question of professional sports and anti - monopoly laws.

In Philadelphia, National Football League Commissioner Bert Bell said, "I usually thought all people had the same rights but if they're different according to the Supreme Court, then they're different."

Other comment from NFL owners was generally cautious, but Walter Wolfner, managing director of the Chicago Cardinals, expressed the thought uppermost in most minds when he stated: "Football can't live without the reserve list. . .if there's no reserve clause in football, there won't be any football, and there won't be any basketball or any other pro sport either."

Reserve Clause Defined

The reserve clause binds professional athletes to the teams with which they start their careers unless they are traded or "sold."

The baseball reserve clause, similar but not identical to the football provision, was a central issue in the 1953 baseball case.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-NY) also expressed congressional interest. The chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, which investigated baseball in 1951, called the football decision "proper."

Celler said the Supreme Court now should reverse its earlier decisions and list pro baseball as a business subject to anti - trust laws. He said: "You can't call one a fish and the other a fowl." He indicated, however, he does not plan to offer any legislation to make baseball subject to anti-trust laws.

The court's original baseball decision, handed down in 1922, stated that professional baseball was not interstate commerce. In 1953, the court upheld its earlier decision on baseball.

Palmer Rallies To Win Money at Houston Open

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) —Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., said today he "got all the breaks" over a mud-torn Memorial Park Course as the front-runners faded and Palmer came from four strokes back with a three-under par 69 Monday to win the $36,000 Houston Open.

Palmer's first prize of $7,500 was stacked haphazardly for him in cash in a silver punch bowl as he walked off the 18th green with a one-stroke victory over Doug Ford, the veteran from Mahopac, N. Y., who has been the leading money winner on the winter tour.

Palmer, nine-under par at 279 for the 72 holes, sank a 15-foot par putt on the 18th. Ford birdied the hole to take second prize of $4,000.

Veteran Jimmy Demaret and youngsters Gene Bone and Bob Harris, the front-runners after the third round, slipped back over the sloshy back nine of the 7,200-yard course.

Finishes Third

Harris, Winnetka, Ill., finished third with a 35-38—73 for a 281 total. Demaret, a favorite son now playing out of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., also had a 35-38—73 for a 282 total for fourth place.

The fate that befell Bone could be classed as heart breaking as the 25-year-old red faced pro fell from the second and third day leads with a final round 78, six over par. But Bone was happy because it brought him $1,600. His previous winnings in two years as a pro totaled $33.34.

Bone's 284 total put him into a tie with Mike Souchak, Grossingers, N. Y., who moved up with a par 72.

Palmer said he knew he needed only pars on the 17th and 18th to win. "And I wasn't a bit nervous. I was very lucky and got the good breaks."

Palmer's short irons and putter were hot as he picked up five birdies to offset two bogies.

Dukes Trip Bonnies In Overtime, 65 to 63

By UNITED PRESS

Sophomore guard Bernie Matthews scored nine points in an overtime period Monday night to enable Duquesne to preserve its post-season tournament hopes with a 65-63 victory over St. Bonaventure at Pittsburgh.

The victory kept the Dukes in the running for a bid to the National Invitational Tournament in which St. Bonaventure already is entered.

In the only other Monday night game involving a Western Pennsylvania team, St. Francis dropped a 76-67 decision to Youngstown College on the winners' court. It was Youngstown's 19th win in a row at home and its 19th of the season against three losses.

Duquesne and St. Bonaventure ended regulation play in a 55-55 tie, and in the overtime Matthews hit for three field goals and three foul shots. He accounted for nine of his team's 10 points in the extra period and was the game's high scorer with 21 points.

Duquesne's victory, its 13th against seven defeats, was its third over teams picked to play in the NIT. It previously had beaten NIT choices Dayton and Cincinnati.

The Bonnies built a 30-29 halftime lead to 38-31 in the second half. But the Dukes caught fire at that point and rang up 21 points while holding the Bonnies to seven.

St. Bonaventure shaved the Duquesne lead to 55-51, then 55-53 and tied it in the final seconds on a basket by Larry Weise.

Weise, with 17 points, was high for the Bonnies, whose record is 15-4.

Kentucky Wins Invitation to NCAA Basketball Tournament

By UNITED PRESS

Coach Adolph Rupp's dream of another NCAA basketball championship got another chance to come true today when his Kentucky Wildcats won a berth in the big post-season tournament.

For the 12th time in the last 14 years Kentucky was crowned champ of the Southeastern Conference Monday night when it clinched first place with a 103-85 romp over Auburn. The title qualifies the Wildcats for a March 15 first game date in the NCAA carnival.

Kentucky, winner of the NCAA tourney under Rupp in 1948, '49, and '51, wrapped up this latest conference crown with a second-half burst after being held to a 46-46 tie at intermission.

Hatton Bags 24

Auburn moved to a six-point lead in the opening minutes of the second half, but then Kentucky rallied to tie at 70-70 with seven minutes left. The Ruppmen raced home from there as Vern Hatton took scoring honors with 24 points.

Texas Western also qualified for the NCAA tournament by clinching the Border Conference championship with a 72-69 victory over New Mexico A&M in overtime. The Miners, with a 15-8 final record, will meet Idaho State, the Rocky Mountain Conference champ, in a first-round tourney game, March 11 or 12.

Kentucky and Texas Western were the eighth and ninth teams to enter the NCAA field.

St. Louis began to look like a good bet for another berth today as a result of Bradley's 88-79 upset by Houston Monday night. The surprise left St. Louis with a two-game lead over Bradley in the Missouri Valley Conference race with four games left. Dan Dotson had 35 points and Ray Patoprsty had 21 points and 14 rebounds to lead Houston.

Scoring Race Resumes

North Carolina, the nation's No. 1 team with a perfect 22-0 record, meets Wake Forest tonight. If the Tar Heels win, they have only to beat Duke Friday night to complete a perfect regular season — but then they have to win a post-season Atlantic Coast Conference tourney to get an NCAA berth.

UCLA, tied with California for the Pacific Coast Conference lead, hopes to gain a half-game tonight by beating Southern California.

And action flares up again tonight in the national scoring race. Runner-up Grady Wallace of South Carolina (30.13 points per game) needed 35 points to his next-to-last game against The Citadel to overtake pace - making Joe Gibbon of Mississippi (30.3). Fourth - place Elgin Baylor of Seattle needs 51 points against Portland to catch Gibbon.

Although Mexico City is situated nearly 7,500 feet above sea level, it stands in a depression that once was covered by a lake.

German Boxer Fails to Impress

NEW YORK (UP) — German Willi Besmanoff, the man without a country, is also a question mark as a heavyweight fighter.

His passport said "stateless" when beetle-browed Willi arrived from Germany in November, and the experts today said, "maybe yes—maybe no," after his successful but unimpressive American debut in a TV fight at St. Nicholas Arena, where he registered his 12th straight victory.

The stocky ex-baker from Berlin won a lop-sided 10-round decision over Calvin Wilson of Philadelphia Monday night; but he displayed lack of aggressiveness and a weak defense although he did show unusual hand-speed and excellent combinations to both body and head.

Before the bout, some of Willi's admirers said he was the best big fellow to arrive from Germany since Max Schmeling landed in 1928. But Willi did not display the explosive punch possessed by Herr Maxie. He knocked Wilson back onto his heels several times in every round, but couldn't stagger him or flatten him.

Farm Income Estimate Is Revised Down

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Department of Agriculture has revised downward its estimate of farm income for last year. It now figures the total at $11.8 billion.

The department also reported that farm price supports cost the taxpayer more last year than in the entire period from 1933 through 1952.

The "realized net farm income" of $11.8 billion for 1956 was up 4 per cent over 1955.

Price support losses suffered by the Commodity Credit Corp., the department's price support agency, reached a record of $1.3 billion in 1956. Losses from 1933-52 totalled $1.1 billion.

It said the Suez Crisis has trimmed the pocketbooks of some foreign customers and exports of U.S. farm products are expected to drop during the first half of this year.

The February meeting of the Whosoever Class of the Belle Vernon Church of the Nazarene was held at the home of Sally Stewart.

Prayer was offered by Mildred Waiton and the scripture was read by Elsie Tintori. Each member responded to roll call with a Bible verse.

After the business session games were played and those receiving prizes were Eva Bednar, Pansy Keleman, Mildred Waiton, Marlene Schwab, June Greenwood, Elsie Tintori and Vera Monti.

The social hour was highlighted by the serving of luncheon.

Baptist Young People in Service

The singing of the theme song, "If You Know the Lord", opened the Sunday evening meeting of the Senior Young People of the First Baptist Church. Linda Hopkins gave the opening prayer and a group of songs was led by Warren Longenecker with Raymond Kimball at the piano.

Francis Barney welcomed the guests, Rita Hans, Clinton Jackson and Colleen Hazelbaker.

Lewis Lynn led in prayer and the guest speaker, Della Lammay, of Charleroi, gave a talk, "How Much Are You Worth". Group singing and prayer closed the meeting.

Former Resident Florida Beauty

Joyce Spina, formerly of Belle Vernon, was chosen as one of the girls to ride on the Clearwater float in the Strawberry Festival on Feb. 19, at Plant City, Florida. The three hour parade was televised.

Miss Spina will also represent Clearwater in the Sara deSota Pageant by appearing on the Sun and Fun float. In addition to this she is vying for the title of "Miss Clearwater" in the city's annual beauty contest and is one of the finalists.
